THOUGHTS

Martyr by Kaveh Akbar explores themes of immigration, queerness, self-destruction, and redemption

I'm thoroughly enjoying the book so far—it's emotionally powerful, beautifully written, and seamlessly blends Akbar's poetic style with a deeply personal narrative, making it impossible to put down. The story unfolds through multiple perspectives, each with its own unique storytelling flair, adding depth and keeping the narrative consistently engaging.

Martyr is perfect for fans of Ocean Vuong, Khaled Hosseini, and Rupi Kaur

THOUGHTS

So far, it's a captivating mix of magic, drama, and unexpected twists. The story follows Jude, a mortal girl navigating a world ruled by powerful faeries. Determined to carve out her own place, she finds herself entangled with Cardan, the cunning and unpredictable faerie king. The tension is intense, and I can't wait to see what happens next!

Highly recommended for:

- Fans of Maleficent and Shadow and Bone who love immersive magical worlds.
- Readers drawn to stories of faeries, magic, and human survival.
- Anyone who loves strong female protagonists fighting for power.
